“ When I met Pat in my younger years I only knew the tough side of him. I stayed out of his way caused he seemed like someone who would kick my butt if I looked at him the wrong way. Later in life I met him in a different setting and found him to be a very likable person. We spoke many times and he shared some of his life experiences with me. I am grateful for that. Few people know he made a difference in my life and many others lives by giving and sharing of himself in a way most people are afraid to do. I am grateful he was part of my life.
