“ Millie was a dedicated member of Second Baptist Church as were her parents. I remember them all being very good to our family when daddy was pastor. Millie had her special seat at church (left side, third row from the front). She often commented that in her "group of girlfriends", she was the only Baptist and some Sundays she had to leave church early to catch up with them for lunch as Baptist always went overtime!! She shared my son's birthdate and we always talked about that each year on that day. I used to laugh because every time someone joined the church, Millie would always find me after church to ask me who they were and where they lived! Although in her later years, she became difficult to visit with, I always enjoyed talking with her about "earlier days".
